

Access & Result Recipient

- Who is the primary recipient of results, the patient (employee), the client company (employer), or both?

One portal- Patient (More details to their results)

Another portal- Company (They just see whether they are fit or unfit, but cannot see indepth results because of privacy)

- If both have access, is there a hierarchy? (e.g., company sees summary only, patient sees full results)

Yes

- Does the type of test or package affect who gets the results? (e.g., sensitive results like fever go to patient only, general medical goes to company)

We mainly just need their progress / overall results displayed (For company)

For patient its good if they can see the status of their results + if we can find a way to upload their results (As requested)

- Can a company restrict the patient's access to their own results, or is patient access always guaranteed?

Patient access guaranteed, company cant restrict their results.

- Is there a consent mechanism, does the patient need to authorize the company to view their results?

I think there should be like a waiver form we can make them sign in person when they go here regarding them giving us authority to share.

- For company-side access, is there a specific designated person (e.g., company physician, HR officer, occupational health nurse) who receives the results?

Company side has to be the crewing officer (The one who screens applicants internally)

- Can multiple people from the same company have access, or is it one account per company?

I think safer one account per company

File Format & Result Types

- What are all the result types your clinic currently releases? (e.g., lab results, X-ray, ECG, physical exam summary, medical certificate, fit-to-work clearance)
- For each result type, what is the current file format used for release?
- Are any results currently released as editable documents (e.g., .docx for translation/encoding purposes)?
- Are X-rays and imaging released as DICOM files, standard image formats (JPG/PNG), or printed films only?
- Do different client companies have different format preferences or requirements (e.g., some want PDF, others want raw images)?
- Is there a standardized template per result type, or does it vary per doctor/staff?

Template & Sample Requests

- Can you provide sample/template files for each result type currently in use? (We need these to design the output module accurately.)
- Are there company-specific templates we need to accommodate, i.e., does the client company provide their own letterhead or form?

- Are results branded with the clinic's logo and details, the company's, or both?
- Are there results that require a doctor's digital signature or PRC license number on the document?
- Is there a "draft vs. finalized" state for results, e.g., can a doctor review before the result is officially released?
- Can you provide the different packages and its different exams?

Patient/Client Onboarding or Sign up

- Do you have a current list of client companies and how does it create a company client?
- How does a patient sign up? Directly from the website or from the client/company account?
- What are the list of informations needed for patient and client company when creating a account?
